Scenario (1)

In addition to coaching the national team, you are also involved in a local development league that has an anti-doping policy that is not in compliance with the World Anti-Doping Code. Essentially, it provides for sanctions that are less severe than those of your International Federation and, according to this policy, test results and doping violation decisions are not publicly revealed.

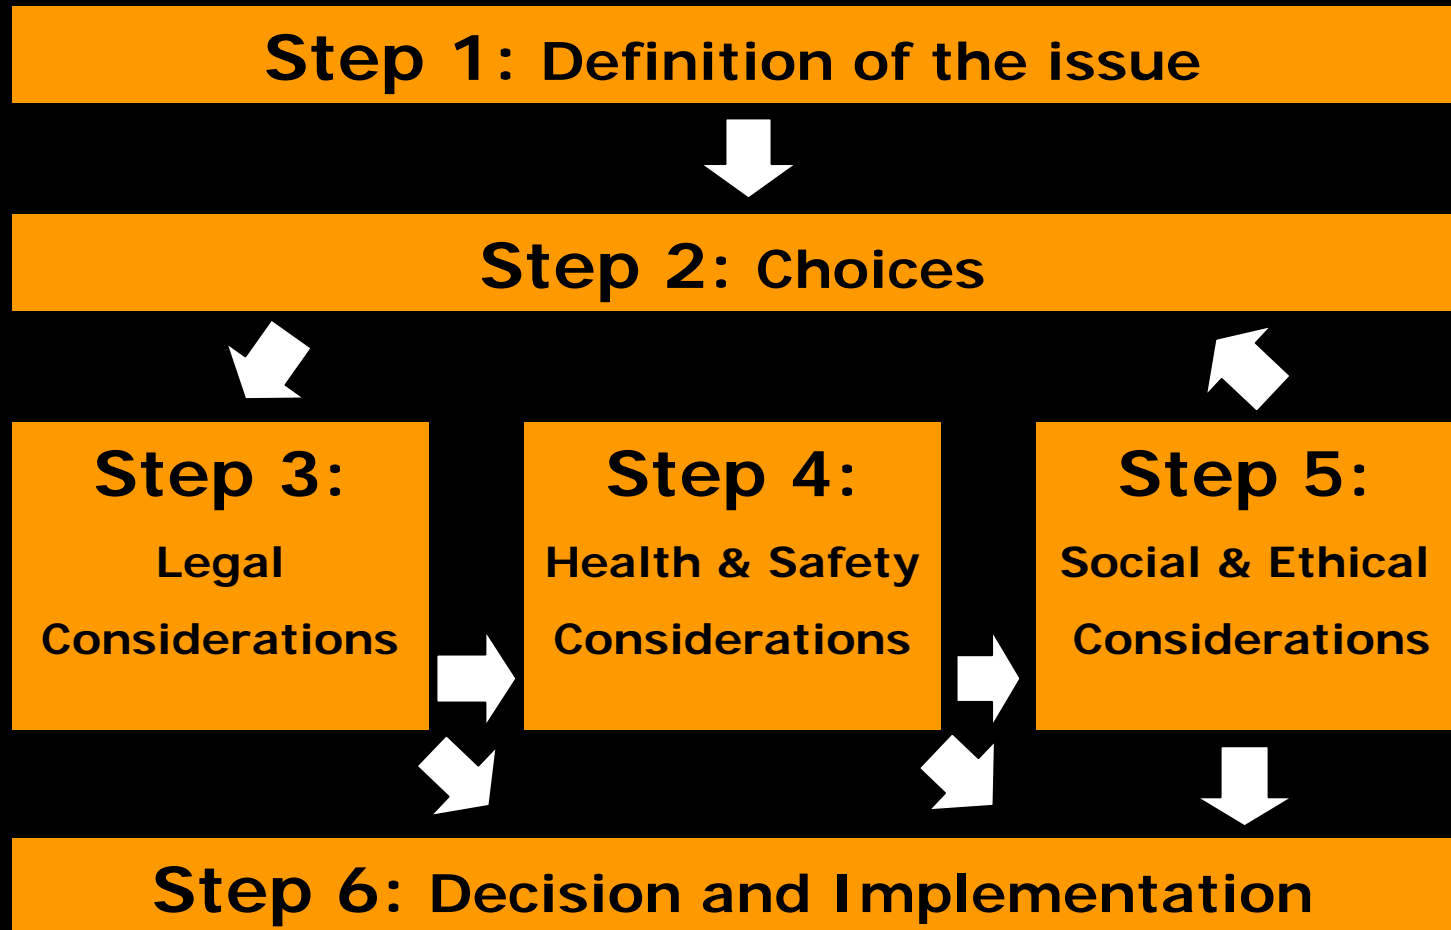

As a board member of this local development league, you have been informed that an athlete of this league has had a recent adverse analytical finding involving steroids. Upon becoming a member of the board, you had signed a confidentiality agreement that would prevent you from disclosing privileged information obtained by virtue of being a board member.

The athlete was not suspended by the league for this violation. The national youth coach in your country, unaware of this situation, has invited this athlete to join his team for an upcoming competition, during which the International Federation's anti-doping rules will apply.

Scenario (2)

- What is the issue here?
- What do I do?
- Where do I seek necessary guidance?
